Timeless Ladies Are Through to the Finals in Sing: Ultimate A Cappella

Published: 3rd November 2017 11:19

A vocal harmony trio based in Portsmouth are through to the last round of a national singing competition hosted on Sky 1.

Timeless entered the competition called Sing: Ultimate A Cappella which is hosted by Cat Deeley and last Saturday, viewers saw them go through to the finals which will take place on November 10th.

Lindsey Bonnick from the group said, "We are incredibly proud of our achievements so far and we cannot wait to see our performance on the final."

The episode was recorded over the summer but the ladies have had to keep the result a secret until now.

Lindsay added, "It has been very hard not telling everyone how well we did in the competition. We desperately wanted to shout it from the rooftops, but we were sworn to secrecy, which was also quite exciting.

"When our episode aired, we received so many positive and wonderful messages. We are eternally grateful for everyone's support, including that of the local media. The future is exciting."

The Timeless ladies have been together for two years and are the only group on the show from the south coast. Although they are singing a capella, they normally perform with a band so have had to hone their skill.

Lindsey explained, "A capella is so different. It's completely stripped back. It's about listening intently to each other. In a band, you're all in it together but with a capella, it's so exposed and there is not a lot of room for error.

"I think a capella will be a much bigger part of our repertoire after the show goes out."

Keep up the with ladies on their website or Facebook page.
